By PTI NEW DELHI: An ailing and virtually blind man from West Bengal who had been in coma for 10 days was today admitted to the AIIMS hospital in Delhi after he suffered a fall while on the way to the airport in Kolkata for treatment in a Singapore hospital. On-duty Kolkata police officials who saw Shalini Tewari after she fell found that she had sustained some fractures on her back, legs and arms. Tewari, who has been staying in the South City Plaza Hotel in Kolkata for the past few days, suffered a setback after she fell down as she was trying to climb down from a goods' van on the Kolkata airport premises around 7:30 am on Wednesday, a police official said. She was found to be extremely weak and was rushed to the airport where she was admitted to the airport health unit. The woman was later shifted to the AAIIMS hospital with the help of Kolkata Municipal Corporation officials who reached the spot with a van to take her to the hospital, police said. The flyover was closed for about an hour and flights were diverted due to the incident. The woman's family members said she was fine a few hours ago but on Wednesday morning she had some problems when she tried to get off the van while travelling to the airport
