JEXL is a library for Java that provides the JEXL API, a language for defining XPath 2.0 expressions and evaluating them on interfaces. The JEXL API is extensible, and adds sophisticated support for XSLT and XQuery extensions to XPath 2.0. JEXL supports XSLT 1.0/XSLT 2.0/XQuery extensions (these are all separate transcluded languages). It also offers support for XPath 2.0 variable bindings and boolean expressions. The JEXL API is portable across the various Java implementations (Java SE, Java EE, GlassFish, etc.), and therefore independent of the XPath implementations available in your implementation.
